

FREE PRINTABLE TEMPLATE

My Revision Timetable

NAME _____ WEEK COMMENCING _____ EXAM DATE(S) _____

	Mon	Tue	Wed	Thu	Fri	Sat	Sun
Session 1
Session 2
Session 3
Session 4
Session 5

Fill in a time and subject/topic for each session as you plan your week — leave sessions blank on lighter days.

How to use this timetable

- Little and often beats one long cram — 25–45 minute focused sessions with a short break between.
- Mix subjects across the week rather than blocking one for days at a time — it helps information stick.
- Revisit weak topics more than once. If it felt hard the first time, put it back on the timetable.
- Practise with real past-paper or mock test questions — it's a different skill from re-reading notes.
- Leave one evening a week genuinely free — rested brains retain more than tired ones.

This week's priority topics

List the topics you most need to revisit, in order:

Want help building a revision plan around your actual exam board and weak spots? A BrainyEdHub tutor can build this out with you. Book a free trial class at brainyedhub.com/contact.html.